

Genealogy

Some families have done a great job of maintaining information about their family history, others have not. In my ancestry, a family member had done a lot of genealogy research on one set of grandparents and another had handled two others, but the “MacLean” part of the family tree was pretty sparse. I am very much an amateur, but in 7+ years of work I have learned a few things and am always willing to help a family trying to figure out its ancestry. If you are interested in some free help, give me a few leads and an idea of what you are trying to figure out and I will give it a try. My help is free.
